

We need your help please!

The EMA has recently partnered with two non-profit patient safety organizations who are deeply involved in raising public awareness around the dangers of fake medicines. They are running campaigns in 5 major countries and intend to support the EMA by supplying educational material that your surgery teams could disseminate locally. This will take the form of a leaflet which may be useful to be translated in to your language and we are therefore looking for support at a local country level to support this initiative.

If you would like to support this initiative please contact mike.isles@asop.eu
